SATURDAY, OCTOBER 25th 1862

The Entente Cordiale.

If troubles and anarchy might have been mutually locked for, from the co-existence of National and Provincial authority in this city, then must come complete harmony and the happiest results from the separation of jurisdiction and friendly feeling reciprocated by the President and Governor.

General Mitre has put his shoulder to the wheel, and evinces a wholesome desire to forget past traditions, beginning the construction of Argentine nationality on a new basis, on the designs of European state craft.

His first measure may be said to be Irish colonization, for it has not escaped the perception of his Minister, Costa, that the surplus people of Europe, which went hand in hand with American greatness has here also raised up a gigantic industry overshadowing all the rest. The President's message, treating not the Province railways, Salado navigation, &c., shews that his views are not confined to B. Ayres, but tend equally to the rapid advancement of the whole republic. The projected bridge over the Sauguanbatee of Mendoza, and breakwater for S. Fé, also demonstrate that even in minor details and at immense distances the strong arm of the Executive will be always as ready to assist and protect as it has been to chastise and govern.

There is yet one subject which has not been attended to by our national rulers—cotton. It is inconceivable how deaf they are to the remonstrances of Gonyplaino and while every other useful enterprise meets with favor, the President and Ministers seem to shrug their shoulders at the mention of this little plant, which, nevertheless, which a greater crop than the metal of Potosi or wooden walls of England.

Again, docks are greatly required for this port, and our commerce would be doubled by their possession. Drinking water supply are now regarded as a bore, and the Nat. Government should declare the municipality elicite, if they do not resolve on some plan before 12 months.

The Governor of the Province has also begun to put his house in order, by reducing the number of public clerks, whose name was legion. This will give an increase of revenue to be laid out in some of the thousand necessities of our camps, and teach scores of able youngsters to seek some active profitable and intellectual employment than lounging about the Government House with a mate cup in their hands.

The first public act of Gov. Saavedra will be the opening of the San Fernando railway, and we may predict that Belgrano will soon be the most thriving town in his jurisdiction. May we hope that such another happy occasion will again call for his presence are the expiation of his term of office? Cotton, his proper muse, on accepting power, to cooperate with Pres. Mitre, has every appearance of sincerity. The ultra-opposition evidently sought to mount a Governor of the province, more as a counterpoise or rival of the Supreme Executive than as a strenuous assistant in the cause of national progress. We are, therefore, happy to find that the friends of peaceful unity put forward so worthy a candidate, and that the entente cordiale between President and Governor is a fresh guarantee of security and goodwill.

War of the Titans.

Lay on Macduff: and damned be he who first cries "hold! enough!"

There was a time when our social atmosphere used to be rudely convulsed by the terrible shock of our morning and evening placards. Aurora and Vedas were at logger heads, and thunders and the "Tribuna" and "Nacional" often anticipated a misunderstanding between Night and Morning. Now the feud is made up between the former combatants, who have secured another ally and declared war against the Nonpluscinos of B Ayrean literature.

The pugilists are all of the same size, but in muscular development and nervous vigor, the Nacion Argentina is a match for the three adversaries. Some strange revelations are disclosed by the rupture, rather humiliating to the independence of our city Press. We are told the Nacional was started with funds from Urquiza, the Tribuna got up in a house and printing office of the Government, the Revista, hatched by a monthly incubation of $6000, and the Nacion Argentina by a subsidy of $6000. By this it would appear that our paper is the only one which dashed into fame by abusing everybody, being chris tened with the devil or compere Gomez down to the Paraná Bonds dispute, we have had the rare luck of being diametrically opposed to every journal in the city.

The great question of morality of the present controversy is that each rebukes the other with the subsidy which all receive: this looks like Satan rebuking Sin. But there is really no harm in receiving Government with any number of copies they may require. The only evil is when a journal betrays, or trifles with, the interests of its subscribers, for the sake of Government patronage. It would be a work of supererogation to suppose that the Standard is not as perfectly free, as spoken now as in last November; yet General Mitre subscribes for 40 copies. Our colleagues make such a row over the good things, because one happens to get a bigger piece than the rest, we would advise the Nation to knock off all subsidies.

The real cause of jealousy seems to us, that the capitalist journal should have grown into such favor both with Government and the public. The editorial columns of the Nacion are ably conducted, their policy is in perfect accord with the sentiments of our foreign friends. But we regret to observe some local events of a low, sacrilious tone, which can claim no excuse, although reciprocated by the Nacional.

The press will inevitably fall into discredit in B. Ayres, if our colleagues turn printer's ink to such base purposes, amusing the public, by bespattering each other. Let them rather create a generous rivalry by vying one with another to foster and stimulate the useful projects, industrial resources, and schemes of reciprocal interest, are so much in request and so seldom find favor with our political writers.

The four Spanish papers are too large, and while swelling them selves out, leave us too little room they possess not one fourth the interest which might be contained in a small sheet. In fact they look too much to quantity and spin out long articles without discussing any one town in his jurisdiction. May we hope that such another happy occasion will again call for his presence are the expiation of his term of office? Cotton, his proper muse, on accepting power, to cooperate with Pres. Mitre, has every appearance of sincerity. The ultra-opposition evidently sought to mount a Governor of the province, more as a counterpoise or rival of the Supreme Executive than as a strenuous assistant in the cause of national progress. We are, therefore, happy to find that the friends of peaceful unity put forward so worthy a candidate, and that the entente cordiale between President and Governor is a fresh guarantee of security and goodwill.

Editor's Table.

The fine weather seems to have come at last, and with it the echoes of the shot pelting from Paysandu to Tandil. The lazy old bullocky cents are getting fixed up for the fandango which begins on the 25th inst at seven o'clock the matches Father Miguel de Paz's Steam at five hundred. This opens a field for the number of bodies shewn, and by the end of the week there will be a general rush of the fleet to the land at the mouth of the Rio Negro. Two more fine steamers have been fitted. These are destined for Mazel Indians exceeded their anticipations in attendance. Mr Fresher, as the interpreter who has spent most of his life among the Indians, undertook to go down with the steamer, and translate to the knowledge of them and how to negotiate to escape detention. He dressed himself in Indian costume, and started on his journey. He arrived at the Upper Agency at night. The place was literally the habitation of death. He visited all the houses, and found their former occupants all lying dead, some in the door steps and some inside their habitations. Others were scattered in the yards and in the roads. He went to the house of the Hon. J. R. Brown, and recognized every member of his family. They numbered eight men in all, and every one of them had been brutally mutilated. At Beaver Creek he found that fifty families had been killed outright. At every house he went into he recognized the dead bodies of nearly all the former inhabitants of the place. Among the dead he had also recognized at the agency were the following:—R. Giveans and family, Dr. Wakefield and family, John Taylans and family, John Morgan, Edward Mayner, Rev. Dr. Williams, Rev M Briggs, and two missionaries by Governor Sibley is now marching to the relief of Fort Ridgely. He reports that the Sioux Indians are united together to carry out a concentrated and desperate scheme, and says that he will be only too happy to find that the powerful superiority of Yankees and other tribes have not united with them. Mr. Fresher went to Governor Ramsey, on the 21st inst, saying that he left Fort Ridgely at two o'clock on that morning. There were then over two thousand Indians at the fort, and all the wooden buildings there had been set on fire, and were burning. Mr. Fresher thinks that other tribes are joining the Sioux, and that they will present a very formidable army. A trustworthy letter, dated Geneva, 21st inst, says that the injury as by the stampeding of the cattle, and not by any attack on the people. Provisions are now hardly be found in the South as in Missouri, Michigan, and the northern part of Sibley, and other counties in Minnesota. In St Paul and the adjoining county all the available horses are being gathered together, and all sorts of ways to sell will be used by willing hands for immediate and summary vengeance upon these blood thirsty Indians.

To Our Country Friends.—We begin to call the attention of our country subscribers to the excellent butter of Mr Henry Vignoles, Nos 163 & 165, Chacabuco. Every thing is kept in the greatest order, and for parties who bring their families to town, we strongly recommend it. The proprietor is a modest quiet, gentlemanly man: the majority of the Irish farmers from the South top there. It is opposite the Irish Farmers' Central station.

More offered, but there were no bidders

Silk goods sold tolerably, Pekins averaging from 2½ to 3¾ 1/2 per metre.

A small lot of muslin delaine from 6 3/4 to 8¾ per metre.

Striped cassimire, from 50 to 62 1/2 per do.

Linen for pantaloons 9-11- 5 to 12.

Shirts, 1/2 linen from $12 to $36

We noticed little satin vest amongst buyers, and although the lots were small, there were many withdrawn.

On Monday next there will be a large trade auction in cotton goods, and then we will be in a better position to give fixed prices.

In the wool market some few contracts have been made to-day, at 100 but no transaction of importance has as yet taken place.

The new wool we noticed in yesterday's paper, to-day in the place, was sold yesterday, but we are informed that it was inferior in qualities and condition, and no criterion to go by. As yet no superior lots have come in but 3 bots are expected daily from the Capilla: the demand seems, however, very brisk. We can nothing wh tever to make prices decline. We give the following quotations:

Best mestiza	105
2d class	90 to 100
Mestizon and mixed 70 to	85
Criollo	45 to 48

In exchange we are informed that over $ 100,000 is nicely taken on England, the last transaction being at 60,6. Owing to the decline in some exchange keeps down which is a rather fortunate coincidence for drawers.

Le sultan vient d'avoir une fille. La naissance de cette princesse a été fêtée pendant trois jours par des illuminations et des feux d'artifice. Ces réjouissances ont valu aux habitants de Constantinople deux autres journées de fêtes, qui ont été données par le grand-seigneur à l'occasion de la grossesse de la sultane, et à celle de la naissance de son premier enfant. Ces deux journées de fêtes pour compléter ce chiffre nouveau. Le fils de la sultane n'a pas moins coûté que 40 millions de piastres.

— Indépendamment de ces dépenses, le sultan a fait, à cette occasion, du grands cadeaux à ses ministres et aux officiers de son palais. Le grand vizir et Aali Pacha, entre autres, ont eu, le premier, 2,000 bourses (un million), et le second, 1,000. Le capitan pacha a reçu en don le palais impérial de Candilli, que l'on sait appartenir à Constantin sous le feu sultan, et qui avait été récemment achevé aux frais de la liste civile.

I

Histoire d'un progrès dans les verroteries noires.

Cette même cependant qui, au dire de gens du Montfermeil, semblait avoir abandonné son enfant, avait devenait-elle subitement plus faisait elle?

Après avoir laissé sa petite Cosette aux Thénardier, elle avait continué son chemin et était arrivée à M.—sur M.—

Orléans, où se la rappelle en 1813.

Fantine avait quitté sa province depuis une dizaine d'années. M.—sur M.—avait changé d'aspect. Tandis que l'ancien duché conduit lentement de misère en misère, sa ville natale avait prospéré.

Depuis deux ans environ, il s'y était accompli un de ces faits industriels qui sont les grands événements des petits pays.

Le détail importe, et nous croyons utile de le développer nous dirons presque, de le souligner.

De temps immémorial, M.—sur M.—avait pour industrie spéciale l'imitation des jais anglais et des verroteries noires, d'Allemagne. Cette industrie avait toujours végété, à cause de la cherté des matières premières qui exigeaient de la mise dehors.

Au moment où Fantine revint à M.—sur M.— une transformation inconnue, subitement opérée dans cette production des matières noires. Vers la fin de 1815, un homme, un inconnu, était venu s'établir dans la ville et avait eu l'idée de substituer, dans cette fabrication, le verre au jais, la résine et, pour le bracelet en particulier, les cordons en tête simplement rapprochée aux cordons et tête soudée.

Ce tout petit changement en effet avait prodigieusement réduit le prix de la main-d'œuvre, bientôt pour la paye, deuxièmement d'accélérer la fabrication, avantage pour le consommateur, troisièmement de rendre à l'ouvrier marché tout en vendant le bénéfice, profit pour le manufacturier.

Ainsi pour une bien moindre somme.

En moins de trois ans, l'autre de ce procédé était devenu riche, ce qui est bien, et avait tout fait faire autour de lui, ce qui est mieux. Il était changer sa disposition. Du son exigeant, on ne savait trouver les ceux consentants peu de chose.

On contait qu'il était venu dans la ville avec tout peu d'argent, quelques centaines de francs tout au plus.

C'est de ce même capital, mis au service d'une idée ingénieuse, secondé par l'activité et par la jeunesse, qu'il avait fait sa fortune et la fortune de tout ce pays.

A son arrivée à M.—sur M.— il avait pas les vêtements, la tournure et le langage d'un ouvrier.

Il paraît que, le jour même où il fit son établissement son entrée dans la petite ville de M.—sur M.—à la tombée d'un soir de décembre, le cas où est et le bâton d'épine à la main, un gros bagouilla vendit d'acheter à la maison commune. Cet homme n'était pas de la ville, et avait passé, au péril de sa vie, deux enfants qui se trouvaient être ceux du capitaine de gendarmerie en qui fait qu'on avait pris soin d'aller à la demander son passeport. Depuis lors, on avait su, son nom. Il s'appelait Madeleine.

II

Madeleine

C'était un homme d'environ cinquante ans, qui avait l'air préoccupé et qui était bon. Voilà tout ce qu'on en pouvait dire.

Grâce aux progrès rapides de cette industrie qu'il avait si admirablement remuée, M.—Sur M.—était devenu un centre d'affaires considérable. L'échevinat, qui consomme beaucoup de jais noir, y consommait chaque année des sabots immenses. M.—sur M.—pour ce commerce, fait avec Francfort, concurrence à Londres et à Berlin. Les bénéfices du père Madeleine étaient très gros, dès la deuxième année, il avait pu bâtir une grande fabrique dans laquelle il avait deux vastes ateliers. Puis pour les hommes, l'autre pour les femmes. Quiconque avait faim pouvait s'y présenter, et était sûr de trouver là de l'emploi, et du pain. Le père Madeleine demandait aux hommes de la bonne volonté, aux femmes de la moralité. Il avait dit et répété bien des fois à ses ouvriers, et chacun d'eux en savait par cœur, à force de les entendre répéter, que la force de l'homme est dans la probité, et la force de la femme dans la vertu. Il avait divisé les ateliers, afin de séparer les sexes et que les filles et les femmes fussent rentrer ensemble. Sur ce point, il était inflexible. C'était le seul où il fût en quelque sorte intolérant. Il était d'autant plus fondé à cette sévérité que, M.—sur M.—étant une ville de garnison, les occasions de corruption abondaient. Du reste, il venait en aide de bonté, et, à ceux qui en était une persévérance. Avec l'argent du père Madeleine, tout homme était dans le pays, maintenant tout y vivait de la vie saine du travail. Une forte circulation s'était établie, et pénétrait partout. Le chômage et la misère étaient inconnus. Il n'y avait pas de pauvres dans cette ville qui n'eut pas un morceau de pain à manger et un coin pour dormir.

Le père Madeleine employait tout le monde. Il n'exigeait qu'une chose: Soyez honnête homme! Soyez honnête fille!

A sure cure for the Scab in Sheep!

No Sheep-Farmer should be without it.

This valuable preparation which is now used to assist all the well grocers of this country,is an unadulterated extract, one pound of which is sufficient pounds of tobacco, retaining in this compound all the qualities of the raw material. It is not required to render the wash easily & only labor required to render the wash ready for use, is to stir the paste into the quantity of hot water, needed for the number of sheep to be dressed.

The most satisfactory proof can be given of its perfect safety, simplicity and usefulness, is that the most Extensive sheep owners in this country say, in just a word, and on the shortest notice. Full direction for use are given on each tin.
